

ABSTRACT

A method and apparatus is provided that may protect a fragile component (such as a quartz plate) positioned within a megasonic tank from impact by falling objects. The megasonic tank may include a barrier (such as one or more extended rollers, quartz bars, or a net) that is configured to protect the fragile component.